Music making in Jordanhill School

In an average year, approximately 300 pupils take part in instrumental instruction lessons in Jordanhill School. This figure is outstanding and reflects the hard-work of our pupils, instructors and the support of our parents. It is our belief that learning an instrument enriches young people's lives. We want to invest in our music department to secure the service we offer and strive for further success.

With the introduction of new funding arrangements for music tuition in 2021, we need your help to continue to offer our pupils the wonderful opportunities that music making can offer.

How you can help us

Our music service has always been subsidised by the Educational Amenities Trust Fund. Generous donations from parents and friends of the school to our Striving Higher campaign has helped us to provide musical instruments free of charge and to sustain a high level of provision. There are two ways that you can help us sustain high quality music making in Jordanhill School:

- 1. Please consider donating any musical instruments to the school that are no longer used. We ask that the instruments are in good condition to allow us to pass these onto our pupils with minimal repair costs. Donations will be gratefully received by the school reception office or the music department.
- 2. Please consider making a donation to our Striving Higher campaign, either a regular monthly donation or a one-off donation. Funds raised will be used to boost our instrument supply, allow us to invest in higher quality instruments, and pay for items for our extra-curricular ensembles.

Thank-you!

Former pupil success

Lewis Banks, Professional Musician and Former Pupil 2012

I studied at Jordanhill School from 2006-2012, and in that time I went from a beginning saxophonist to a student at the Royal Conservatoire of Scotland.

Jordanhill is renowned for having a fantastic music department, and I can say without hesitation that had it not been for my musical experiences at the school, I would not have become a professional musician.

The experiences and life-skills that young people are exposed to through music are truly special and unique. I hope you will join me by supporting Jordanhill's funding drive by donating an instrument or by making a monetary donation to this extremely worthy cause.
